Bobby was beloved by many, a true friends-friend. He touched the hearts, minds and emotions of all that crossed his path, regardless of their station in life. His humor, compassion, and meticulousness were hallmarks of Bobby’s full and rich life. He always gave more than was given. An avid Harley enthusiast, graceful snow skier and legendary “teller-of-tales,” he will live through generations to come as “Bobby-Lore” is told and shared among friends and family.

The family would like to express their grateful appreciation to the Hubbard Hospice House and the many wonderful friends that have supported and helped care for Bobby over the last several years.
